Pension Protection Signups End September 20

Most of California's 152,400 military retirees who wish to gain pension protection for their survivors under the "Widow's Equity" program have only until September 20, 1973, to apply for benefits, according to Senator Alan Cranston.

Historically, the widow of a retired military man has not automatically received part of her husband's retirement pension after his death, Cranston pointed out. Often survivors are left with no monthly income after the military retiree dies.

To correct that situation and give military retirees the same pension protection afforded to Civil Servants, Cranston co-sponsored the Military Survivor Benefit Plan (popularly known as "Widow's Equity") last year with Senator Glenn Beall Jr. (R., Md.).

The President signed the bill into law on September 20, 1972. Career military personnel who retired before that date were given one year to exercise their option to sign up for the annuity.

The option expires September 20, 1973.

Under the plan, career military personnel may leave up to 55 percent of their retirement pay to their spouse and/or minor dependents, Cranston said.

Each retiree pays varying amounts into the plan depending upon how large he would like the survivor benefits to be, and the number and age of the dependents, Cranston explained.

Generally, the amount paid by the retiree is 2-1/2 percent of the monthly pension for the first $300 a retiree receives and 10 percent of any amount over $300, Cranston explained. The monthly cost of the annuity is not taxable income.

Information and applications for enrollment in the plan may be obtained from most military facilities

ARMY RECRUITER

Hello everybody. A musician is a different breed. He marches, as Thoreau observed, "to the beat of a distant drummer." He sees and hears and feels things most of us are only vaguely aware of. He learns very early in life that if he is to contribute significantly to his profession, he must make a commitment in a way very few of his classmates will ever have to. And as he approaches maturity he begins to realize how difficult this can be.

The avenues of growth for a musician of 17 or 18 are few in number and littered with obstructions. Traditionally, he can go one of two ways. He can dig deep for four more years of intensive training and instruction at a college of music. Or he can try to get some friends together and gig on the local club circuit. Most young musicians don't have the money for four more years of school and very few are fortunate enough to land scholarships. Most end up with a small gig, trying to break into a field that is already over-populated with other people attempting the same thing. Even the very best of these people have to work two jobs until they're established. Consequently, most young musicians never learn the amount of music their talent is capable of assimilating. And their professional growth is aborted before it has begun.

TODAY'S ARMY is welcoming your musicians. They have flung open the doors of the famous school of music in Little Creek, Virginia just outside of Norfolk. At Little Creek, there are teachers who are teaching enlistees all the things they taught Eddie Fisher and Steve Lawrence and hundreds of others who have enjoyed success in the field of music after a hitch in the Army. They are teaching things about composition, theory and arrangement that all good musicians must know. The kinds of things a young man or woman has to pay plenty to learn at a college of music. In TODAY'S ARMY they learn for free.

Young musicians who really have something going might find themselves vying for a spot with the Army Band. And that means the White House. It also means Italy, Japan, Korea, Alaska, Hawaii, Belgium, Germany and most every state in the nation. The Army band gets around. And so do its people. Inevitably, small groups fragment on free time and form their own combos, dance bands and small groups to play gigs on and off post. The beautiful thing is that each group can feel assured that it contains some of the best musical talent to be anywhere.

For more information concerning TODAY'S ARMY bands or any other jobs, please contact us at 431-Webster in Monterey or call 372-4742/372-0553.

Operation Shoestrings Hopes To Expand San Pablo Avenue Facility

"An excellent staff and total community support" now attending the Elm Street center, which is a part of the Reverend's H.H. Lusk, Director of Operation Shoestrings, Inc., feels has contributed to the continuing success of that five-year old child-care program for welfare families. This represents 79 heads of households.

"Our programs are the best in the county," he said emphatically. A staff of four teachers at the center on Elm Street and the 11 teachers at the San Pablo Avenue center are the key to the programs, self-sufficient and no longer "because they are people who love children and provide the kind of quality care that's needed," he said.

A hopeful project by Operation Shoestrings is to expand its facilities on the San Pablo Avenue location with funds donated by the community. The $50,000 goal for materials and equipment needed for an adjacent building is in sight for next year and this points up the fact there is solid backing from the surrounding communities, Rev. Lusk said.

The new quarters will accommodate the children played a major part in keeping our county welfare budget low," he stated.

Accepting the oaths of offices were Seaside's Ethel Johnson, Club Representative; Melva Baxter, Treasurer; Cleady Phillips, Secretary; Margie Moten of Fort Ord, vice president and Mary Ellen Harris of Seaside, president.

The outgoing president, Ethel Johnson, pinned the newly installed president and handed her the gavel. Mrs. Harris in turn appointed members who will serve appointed offices during her term of office. Rosie Dullie was appointed to serve as parliamentarian; Charlotte Lowe, education chairman; Chris Ellis, historian and Delores Hebert, membership chairman.

The officers and members of the Sandpiper TMC extend an open invitation to interested persons who would like to improve their public speaking. Bi-weekly meetings are held at the Fort Ord NCO Club on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month, from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

A lovely mid afternoon buffet was hosted by Mrs. Austin (Ida) Winters of Seaside recently. The guest of honor was her sister, Mrs. Juanita Silva, also of Seaside, who was presented with a beautifully-decorated cake, for a birthday which was celebrated in late August. Other sisters attending were Mrs. Theresa Bergquist and Mrs. Anthony (Helen) Barbie, both of Seaside, and Mrs. Viola Walters of Monterey.

The birthday party and reunion of all the sisters ended as a nostalgic affair when they reminisced of the "olden times," as they are the last five of nineteen children of the late John and Mathilda Artellan, whose family home was located on the corner of Figueroa and Pearl Streets, now the home of Pacific Gas and Electric Company of Monterey.

Before the Custom House in Monterey was remodeled, a picture of their grandfather, the late Pierre Artellan, who was a Bostonian mate on one of the first Friendships to sail into the Monterey Bay, hung at the head of the stairway for many years.

Also attending was Austin Winters, the only surviving brother-in-law.

Talented Richard "Dick" Bragg of Station KIDD in Monterey celebrated his Second Anniversary with FEEDBACK, a talk show in which any listeners have the opportunity to voice their opinions on the air. The need for this type show in Seaside and the Monterey Peninsula is paramount, and the station could not have selected a better person to handle the show than Dick Bragg.

Among the guests appearing on his anniversary show were such distinguished people as Bert Rudolph, County Taxpayers Association; Lou Haddad, former Mayor of Seaside; and many more. Such topics as the new reapportionment of districts affecting Monterey, and other civic matters of importance to the Monterey Peninsula, were voiced.

The communities of the Monterey Peninsula are composed of many kinds of people who have many diverse opinions of importance and through programs such as these, they have the opportunity to be heard, and should be listened to by their elected officials. During the program, Seaside Mayor Joe Dolan called in to congratulate Bragg.

The show is heard nightly on KIDD from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. and is open to the public.

This was my first opportunity to hear the program, and I feel deeply honored that Dick permitted me to visit with him on his show. I am looking forward to another visit.

Civic minded individuals often times go unnoticed, and laurels are not placed on their contributions to the community until long after they have passed off the scene. This is not the case with Dick Bragg, for his services to the communities that comprise the Monterey Peninsula area deserved the very best that the community can offer.

The SEASIDE POST & NEWS SENTINEL joins with thousands of his listeners in congratulating him on his second anniversary and wishes him many years of continued success.

THE IMPORTANCE OF DIGNITY

The brawny man came running across the deserted oil field with a sense of urgency. Doubling his speed, legs pumping hard, he threw himself against the gravel pile. He hit hard and lifted his rifle to firing position.

"Cut," movie director Jonathan Kaplan yelled. "That was great, Jim, just great." He turned to the camera crew of Gene Corman's MGM production of "The Slams." "Let's get ready for the next set-up please."

Jim Brown got up from the gravel, brushed himself off and walked over to a chess board on top of a crate. Jim's chess partner between scenes resumed his position at the board while the star looked for something to sit on, continuing a heavy discussion that had started earlier.

"Dignity, like pride and honesty, is a quality that others must see in a person," says Jim. "It's not something that one feels as an integral part of one's personality. Dignity is being respected as a man to look up to. It does not have a great deal to do with immediate recognition or hero worship. As a veteran Cleveland Browns player I got accustomed to recognition. But the next step is the all important one. Would people still point and whisper if I were not Jim Brown?

"It was in England that I took the first objective look at myself. No one had ever heard of Jim Brown in Europe. I began to realize people were judging me simply as another man," says Jim.

"This is what I mean by saying a man's dignity is important. Do these qualities in a man set him aside? Do they make him someone people would like to call a friend? This has nothing to do with recognition and flattery. It is a great feeling to know you've made it under this sort of set-up."

He added, "Another attribute that is vital to living in this society is pride. Not pride synonymous with boastfulness, but pride in one's bearing and being and relationships with others."

Part of that pride comes from working films and doing a good job. Brown's latest is "The Slams," a stark prison drama which follows the exploits of a prisoner and his fight against the system.

C of C Progress Report

by Verlaine Crawford.

Contrary to popular opinion, the Seaside Chamber of Commerce is not trying to take over the world, nor even the individual worlds of agencies or peoples who are trying to accomplish things in Seaside. The Foundation Concept as conceived through many days of meetings and discussions is devised to create a central, creditable, accountable entity which can work on behalf of individual agencies and organizations to get funds into Seaside.

This Foundation would serve the community and through its unified force it can get monies, grants and government funding that might be lost if such a centralized, unified group of people did not exist.

As this concept has developed through Community meetings with various agencies in Seaside and representatives from the County and Community Hospital, from County Offices and from political offices both local and County-wide, it has been said over and over again that the members of the Board of Directors of such a Foundation must be leaders in Seaside, representatives from the agencies and these people would be responsible for insuring that these monies are funneled directly from the source to the agency or project that is being accomplished. The Foundation would serve as a grant-writing and bookkeeping, administrative authority for agencies and projects in Seaside. This is the purpose and the goals are to improve Health, Education and Community Development in Seaside. Such projects might be as follows:

Health a. Seaside Health Center; b. Cooperative or Consortium of Seaside health agencies; c. Health Education programs.

Education a. Career Education Center for all Ages; b. New Programs for Youth and Adult interaction.

Community Development a. City Planning and Organization; b. Business Development through economic analysis and promotion.

On Thursday, Sept. 6 is the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Seaside Chamber of Commerce. Everyone is invited to come to the Chamber at 8 a.m. to share coffee and donuts and a good discussion.

On Friday, Sept. 7 at 10:30 a.m. at the Chamber is the Military Affairs committee meeting. We will be discussing plans for the Military-Community Week, October 1 through 7, with a big old-fashioned picnic at the Monterey County Fairgrounds on October 7 from 12 noon to 6 p.m. with a free barbecue, and playoff games in socko and volleyball between the military and civilian teams. There will be games for the kids and free entertainment. We can use all the help we can get in organizing this fun event. So come to the meeting or call the Chamber at 394-6501. The next meeting of the Committee will be Thursday, Sept. 13 at 10:30 a.m. at the Chamber.

It's time you got involved in the Chamber. We've got a lot going, but we need all the people to participate. So join the Chamber and if you're already a member, come and get involved.

Bob Wood Reports

We have all heard the old saying that "it's an ill wind that doesn't blow some good." I think we can relate this to the political charges and counter charges that have been coming out of the news media from Washington, D.C. these last several months.

Maybe here in California we can move out in front in attempting to pass better laws that would require candidates of public offices and their campaign committees to be accountable to the public for funds collected and spent both before and after an election.

In the Assembly last week we passed a bill with an overwhelming majority that would tighten income and spending disclosure and requires the reporting of all gifts and expenditures of $100 or more by the name of the contributor. Present law requires reporting only the gifts over $500. It would prohibit against all anonymous gifts of $100 or more. It would also call for audits for these reports on a random basis by the Auditor General's office.

Another bill we have passed would attempt to make sure that there is no conflict of interest by requiring an annual public listing of all Legislator's real estate holdings, gift and income, when real estate holdings exceed $1,000 and the income or gift exceeds $250.

Your Mayor Reports

Joe Dolan

The City of Seaside and the Seaside Redevelopment Agency have filed a petition for Writ of Mandamus and damages in the Superior Court for Monterey County. This action names the State Coastal Zone Conservation Commission as defendant and seeks exemption for the Laguna Grande Redevelopment Project from the permit requirements of Proposition 20. Filing at this time was necessary because the statute of limitations on such court action is only 60 days from the date of the decision of the commission, and was about to expire.

The city and agency have been granted a permit for a principal portion of the Laguna Grande Project. That permit is under appeal, which is due for hearing before the State Commission on September 6th.

The complaint alleges, among other things, that the City and Agency began the Laguna Grande Project several years ago and that they became committed and spent substantial sums of money on the project, commencing in 1969. The city became obligated on a long-term loan and grant contract at that time. They cannot rescind that agreement now without subjecting the City to substantial liabilities. Almost $2.5 million has been spent or committed on the project to date. The action cites the recent decision of the California Supreme Court as authority, among others, for the position of the City and Agency that they are entitled to the exemption based on the showing of earlier commitment and activity.

Months ago, we predicted that Proposition 20 adoption would effectively remove all vestiges of "home rule" and the controlled development of Seaside would be thwarted by an absolute minority. Seaside's Redevelopment Projects, which have been truly outstanding and beneficial for the overwhelming majority of our citizens, are now in very real jeopardy.

Continued funding by HUD is dependent upon action. In other words, if our approved plans just remain on the shelf, funding will be withheld or completely eliminated. Seaside as a whole is the loser because both business and the individual home owner, taxpayer, and prospective employer/employee will suffer. Our blighted areas (Wrecking yards) and lakes are not developed into the beautiful recreational areas that are projected in our master plan.

I'll ask one question, "Who benefits if Seaside's Laguna Grande Permit or Exemption is not granted?"

Letter To The Editor

Editor: Undoubtedly somewhere "the mills of the gods grind slow but sure." In our county, however, it sometimes appears that the adage should read: "the mills of public policy hardly grinds at all."

The efforts of the Bay Rapid Transit company to close down its inadequate, yet helpful, bus operation on the Peninsula have been rewarded with success. The state Public Utility Commission has approved it.

Long ago it was evident that the bus company, like many others in various areas of the land, is doing poorly and may go out of business. Where were all the concerned citizens? Where were all the county officials, city officials, civic organizations? Did they not know that public transportation should have a high priority in our county? That many have no cars and need it to get about?

Were they aware—those in a position to do something—that more and more cars are clogging up our roads and streets? That families are often forced to have two or three cars? That auto accidents are rising constantly? That more and more roads have to be built at tremendous expense? That old roads have to be constantly widened? That the air is becoming more dangerously polluted? That much of the beauty of nature is being destroyed by more and more gas stations, auto agencies, auto repair shops, auto wrecking firms, parking lots—usually unattractive, drab, and unimaginative? That tooting of raucous horns, slamming on car doors, and noise of poorly operating motors is responsible to a great extent for much of human unhappiness? Who needs bedlam?

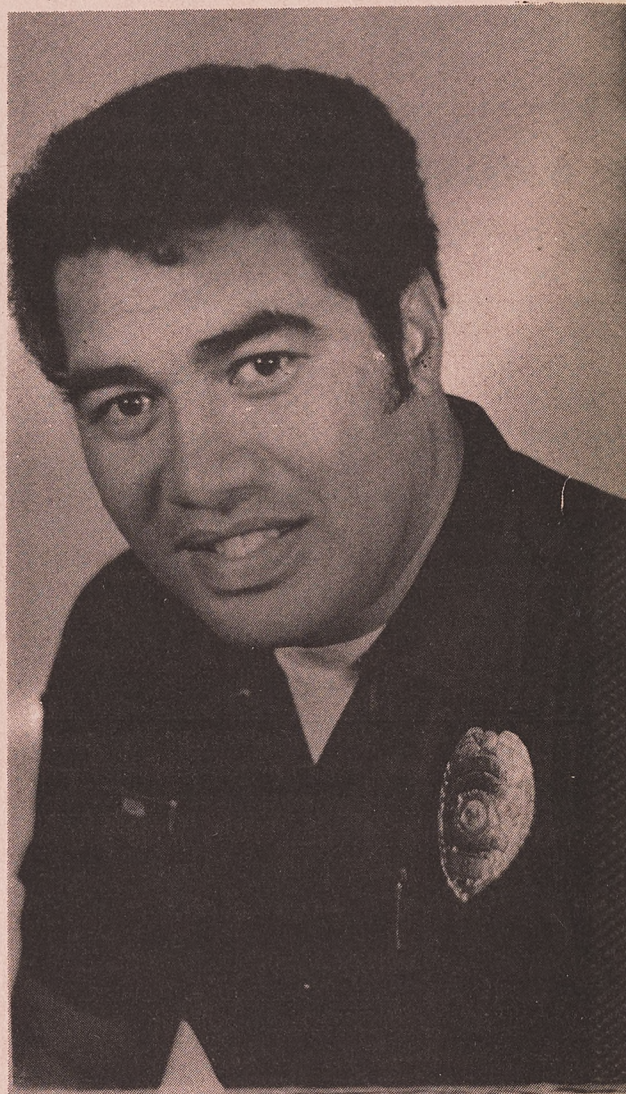

I am only one person, but I am concerned. I know there are others, and they should speak up for a truly ample and imaginative public transportation that could fill the need and be widely used. It would save lives. It would be a Godsend to the elderly, students, and the many people who do not have a car. It would be a great savings to most motorists who would find it advisable to ride the bus part or much of the time. It would help to clean our air.

I would like to submit the proposals I presented at a Public Utility Commission hearing several weeks ago:

1. The County, through a proper agency, set up public transportation to cover every neighborhood throughout our county. No resident should have to walk far to board a vehicle. The vehicles should be as pollution-free as possible.
2. Vehicles should operate every day from early morning to late at night. They should run frequently. They should be distinctive and attractive, comfortable to ride, easy to get on and off, and their operators should be trained for courtesy and helpfulness at all times.
3. Benches and signs—both attractive—should be placed on various corners along the routes. The signs should give the schedule and the route.
4. Fares should be no more than 25¢; a transfer, 5¢. However, main emphasis should be to sell monthly passes good for unlimited riding in a month. They should cost $8; for senior citizens and figures released by the district's business office.

The 1973-74 rate will be about $4.333 for each $100 of assessed valuation for residents of the former Monterey city school district. Persons who own property in the former Marina elementary district will have a total rate of $4.339. The new rate for Monterey represents a drop from last year of 75.8 cents and the Marina rate is down 80.7 cents.

THE SEASIDE ART COMMISSION will present the last of the 1973 Summer Series of public art lecture-demonstrations on Friday, Sept. 7, at 7:30 p.m. in Seaside City Hall, according to Chairman C.Y. Lee.

William F. Timmins of Carmel will demonstrate watercolor techniques and show some of his finished paintings. He is listed in Who's Who in American Art, a member of Carmel Art Ass'n., the Society of Western Artists, Rhode Island's Providence Art Club, and of the Monterey County Fair Art Board.

The public is invited to attend this art demonstration without admission charge on Friday evening, and to view the unusual September exhibits of paintings, art constructions, pottery and ceramic art by Jean Wilsdon, Ilene Tuttle, Barbara Greenberg and Beatrice Greenberg, prior to the demonstration.

students it should be half price—$4.

5. An effective campaign should be made to get motorists to ride the public transportation as much as possible.

The Monterey Peninsula College and other schools, the Fairgrounds, shopping centers, various restaurants, places of recreation, amusement and interest, should all be easily accessible with public transportation. Also hospitals, doctors, etc.

Its affect on business would be tremendous since far more people would be able to get around in all parts of our Monterey county. As more counties do the same—some have already begun—we could link up our public transportation system with others, so that wider traveling could be done conveniently and inexpensively by all.

A great Chicago planner at the beginning of the 20th century said: "Make no petty plans; they lack the power to inspire." Have we got officials and concerned residents in our county with shoulders broad enough to match our hills and mountains, with vision of an eagle, with determination not to plod wretchedly along but to plan for a great future for our county, and supply adequately the needs of the present?

Sincerely yours,
George Herman,

— After Dark —

The Fireside, which has opened its new restaurant, will be the source of much entertainment and fine foods according to the latest information I have received from my sources. During the evening meals from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. nightly they will have an organist or pianist who will be providing dining entertainment. The first of its kind in Seaside.

This does not mean that the food will be secondary, for on its menu are such goodies as Crab Louie, Lobster, Prawns, Chef's Salad, Steaks, 1/2 Spring Chicken, various salads, and to complete this dinner, they include an assorted win list that is completely out of sight.

There is a lovely hostess there to seat you and soft flowing music to cool your temper and set the tempo for a lovely evening at a price that you can afford. The Grand Opening will be held tomorrow and you are invited.

The month of September brought together a number of strange birthdays with its entrance. Among the celebrants were: Jimmy Ward, owner of The Lamp Post, celebrated his "27"th birthday for the 20th time in Oakland, Saturday, Sept. 1, by attending the Raider/49er Football Game. He states the Raiders reason for winning was because he had requested it for his birthday. After the Raider/49er game, Jimmy and his guests returned to the Lamppost where they partied until 2 a.m. and then a selected few, 25 to be exact of which 18 were women, then embarked aboard a yacht, where they continued to celebrate until dawn.

Then Lou Haddad celebrated his "30th" birthday by appearing on Dick Bragg's "FEEDBACK" show, which was celebrating it's second birthday, Monday, Sept. 3.

Old Evil Willie Adams was celebrating his 61st birthday, but this isn't news, for at his age, he is very forgetful, and he celebrates his birthday once a month. The peculiarity about this situation is that he never celebrates on the same day. I have reached a conclusion that he does not know just exactly when his birthday really is. According to reliable sources, he was born sometime between the years of 1865 and 1901. We have proof that he was not born after, because he was instrumental in starting World War I. According to sources, he has been eligible for Old Age Pension 30 years. In fact he has worn out three sets of false teeth, and three of his wigs have turned grey.

Dick Bragg invited me down to share his second anniversary on the air with KIDD, and would you believe it, he gave me directions to Pebble Beach, I wonder if he was trying to tell me something. But like the proverbial bad penny, I found my way there and sat around for an hour just waiting to sink my teeth in that birthday cake. Would you believe it, he couldn't find a knife until after I had left. I started to tear me a hunk, but I received some glaring eyes from Bert Rudolph, who informed me that the Tax Payers Association would start a petition to run me out of CARMEL (where I wished I resided), so I made my excuses and left. Naturally on the way back I got lost AGAIN.

Dick has a show that the community can very well be proud of. It gives them the opportunity to expound on any subjects they so desire, and provides them with informative intelligence about the latest happenings that affect them. I join with many of his listeners in inviting you to listen in and participate. He is on the air nightly from 7 to 9 p.m. on KIDD.

Clintel C. Porter's Blues Show ("NOTHING BUT THE BLUES") has caught on fire on KZEN, and the phone lines are lighting up with demands from the community requesting he add some hours to his show. At the present time, he is on the air from 12 noon to 2 p.m. each Sunday. He has become a professional and his deliverance is superb. He decided it would not be a good idea for me to appear on his show and sing my favorite, "Blue Jumped A Rabbit And Run Him For A Solid Mile, Til The Rabbit Took The Blues And Cried Like A Natural Child." That's the title of the tune.

Plus the fact that Clint is slightly jealous of my very fine voice and my guitar pickin'. And I Strum a while.

Consortiumls Approved Unanimously

Setting up a legal Seaside Foundation and Consortium for the benefit of the city's various service agencies was unanimously agreed upon at a recent community meeting at the Seaside Chamber of Commerce.

The Foundation and Consortium, expected to be on file as a non-profit corporation within two weeks, will act as a central agency to handle the administrative and fund-raising efforts of member agencies.

The meeting, the fourth held in an attempt to consolidate agency's approval and cooperation, was spearheaded by Cappi Patterson, public relations businesswoman and grant-writer.

Ms. Patterson outlined previous discussion on the foundation-consortium and presented a tentative example of the set-up.

The Foundation would serve as an overlying central administration composed of Health, Education and Community Development consortiums.

The Foundation would round-up large grants from government, business, community and private sources which would go into a central pot.

The Consortium board of directors would be made up of representatives from each participating agency and the board would decide the distribution of monies to each agency.

County Hospital administrator Tom Skouros told of successful plans of a San Francisco and Cleveland, Ohio consortium. He pointed out one disadvantage of the foundation-idea was "personnel problems."

"The biggest problem will be having the individual agencies giving up some of their autonomy," he said.

But the advantage of a united voice is, he said, that agencies would be able to approach communities for funds more easily, since communities are afraid of grass roots and independent agencies.

Ms. Patterson maintained the Foundation example was only a sample set-up and emphasized the flexibility of it.

But, she added, the concentration will be on the Health Consortium at first because "it is the most crying need in Seaside and those agencies are the most participatory."

Service and health agencies that are interested in joining the Consortium are Agape, Alliance on Aging Senior Citizens, Foster Grandparents, Friendship House, Harambe, Operation Shoestring, Reality House, S.H.A.R.E., St. Joseph's Missions, Toddlers' House, and Y.A.F.A.

Health Contractual agencies (who already have monies and will have to put it back into the central pot) that are interested in the Consortium are: Alcoholism Council of Monterey Peninsula, Aquarian House, Comprehensive Health Planning Association, Community Hospital of Monterey Peninsula, Monterey County Health Department and Natividad Medical Center.

Ms. Patterson said the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW) indicated they were "very interested" in the foundation, "even in its informal stage because it's the first community consortium of its kind and hasn't failed 400 times around the country."

A lawyer will help set-up the legal mechanics of the foundation immediately, said Ms. Patterson. She stressed that she would serve as a consultant to the Foundation but definitely not as its administrator.

The next community meeting is scheduled for Thursday, September 13, 7:30 p.m., at the Seaside Area Service Center, 1580 Del Monte Blvd. The public is invited.

College Vets Earn More

College graduates have an average lifetime income that is $237,000 more than persons with only a high school diploma -- $608,000 compared to $371,000.

The earning averages from Department of Labor studies were pointed out by J.E. Mullen, Director of the San Francisco Veterans Administration Regional Office, in urging the use of G.I. Bill training by Vietnam veterans.

Under the G.I. Bill, school-bound single veteran receive $220 a month for full-time training, up to a maximum of 36 months of school attendance, or a total of $7,920. The monthly allowance for veterans with dependents.

The G.I. Bill has other features. Veterans enrolled in high school studies also receive monthly allowances without a charge against basic eligibility, so that full G.I. Bill entitlement is retained for college attendance.

Those veterans in college on a half-time or more basis can now be tutored. Under the G.I. Bill, VA will pay veterans up to $50 a month for a maximum of $450 for tutorial assistance. Again, there is no charge against the veteran's basic entitlement. Mullen pointed out.

Details are available at any VA office, or from the various veterans service organizations.

CHP Tells Of Proper Way To Carry Bikes

Bicyclists who transport their two-wheelers on motor vehicles are creating a new generation of safety problems, according to Captain Dan W. Lyons Commander of the California Highway Patrol's Monterey Area.

Captain Lyons identified four hazards caused by improper exterior mounting: obscurement of lights; interference with driver vision; bikes which fall from moving vehicles; excessive projection to the sides.

The law requires that lights and reflectors be visible not only to the front and rear, but at a 45 degree angle to left or right on the respective sides.

The driver must have unobstructed vision to front and sides, and interfere with the rear vision requires installation of appropriate side mirrors. The vision problem is common for compact and foreign car drivers because the bicycle often interrupts the line of sight, Lyons said.

A number of motorists have been lashing bikes to inadequate mounting points. When the bike falls off, the result is a traffic hazard - and a destroyed bike.

When mounted on a passenger vehicle, a bicycle may not extend beyond the left fender line, or more than six inches beyond the right fender line. A projecting bike stands an excellent chance of being cut in half by a passing vehicle, and in some cases involves the motor vehicle in an accident.

Captain Lyons pointed out that a front or rear-mounted bicycle can obscure the license plate, which is a violation, and added that "all of the requirements for transporting bicycles apply equally to motorcycles."

Seaside Gets Share Of State License Fees

State Controller Hugh Flournoy recently reported distribution of $247,766 to cities and counties as the first semi-annual apportionment of State-collected off-highway motor vehicle license fees.

Flournoy reported Monterey County received $1,490.52 as its share of the first semi-annual allocation of revenues deposited in the Off-Highway License Fee Fund. Seaside received $282.03; Pacific Grove - $139.98; Carmel - $36.10; and Greenfield - $22.95.

The off-highway revenues derived from a $4 fee charged for issuance or renewal of identification of those off-highway vehicles designated by law for such identification. This fee is in lieu of all taxes according to value levied for state or local purposes. Cities and counties may use the funds for specified activities in Nuclear power plants are very dangerous to your health, something like automobiles, cigarettes, alcohol, many food preservatives and crooked politicians. None of these dangers, however, is in danger of being eradicated, particularly nuclear power plants. During the next thirty years our electrical power requirements will increase about five-fold, and it is an unfortunate fact that not much of it will be available from new hydro-electric plants. We can get this power from natural gas, which is becoming scarce, or we

Cranston's Bill Would Stop Banks

Senator Alan Cranston has introduced legislation to protect an individual's financial records from unauthorized disclosure by a bank or other financial institution.

Called the "Right to Financial Privacy Act of 1973," the measure would "grant to customers of banks procedural and constitutional rights with respect to demands for access to their financial records by government agencies," Cranston said.

He said the bill gives the individual the same rights he would have if the records were in his own possession.

The bill forbids an institution from turning over personal financial information to the government or anyone else unless the individual has first given his written approval or the information is being sought under subpoena.

Cranston, who is a member of the Senate Banking Committee which will consider the bill, said legislation is needed to halt a current practice of some institutions of agreeing to "informal arrangements" with government agencies to disclose confidential financial information about their customers.

Cranston said banks are releasing this information "at their own discretion" and without the customer's knowledge or consent.

connection with the use or control of such vehicles.

Half of the distribution went to the cities and half to counties in the proportion that the population of each city or county bears to the population of all the cities or counties in the state. Distribution is based on the 1970 Federal Census as adjusted to reflect new incorporations, annexations, special censuses and State Department of Finance estimates.

As I See It can get it from oil, which makes even more smoke pollution than burning gas, or we can get it from nuclear plants.

Given the choice, then, between smoke pollution from oil-burning plants or nuclear pollution, we can choose between a danger to our health that we can see and smell, and another danger that cannot be seen or smelled. We would have to be totally unrealistic to believe our population and our industrial capacity can expand without getting this electrical power from some source, and we may as well get used to the idea that the world will never again be like it was, and that it will get worse.

On the bright side of the news, our faithful Martha Mitchell has disrupted the serenity at the San Clemente White House with an announcement that John and the President talked frequently while the Watergate cover-up was building and that Nixon knew about "the whole god-damn thing." She also said that she saw with her own two eyes a campaign strategy book written by Nixon and Haldeman and that "it included the procedures of everything that has happened."

This comes under the category of good news, because she may now be called to testify when the Watergate hearings resume, and if she shows up and has anything at all to back up her allegations, the football games will just have to wait for TV coverage until she gets through.

One Thing Leads To Another

For the past year and a half, television viewers have chuckled at the antics of a Black pre-schooler trying to eat a large hamburger.

Six commercials later—seen at first in seven Western markets and now on view in an additional 13 in the West and Southwest—the five-year-old lad has captivated audiences. He even sings on a series of commercials and charms viewers by laughing at his vocal attempts.

The youngster, Rodney Allen Rippey of Long Beach, will appear on NBC Television Network's The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson Monday, September 10 with guest host Sammy Davis Jr.

When the Los Angeles office of the advertising agency, Doyle Dane Bernbach Inc., held an audition for the commercials, over 200 turned out. Rodney was one of four but he looked so good, the agency

Stanford Job Fair Is Oct 6-7

Eighty-six bay area employers will sponsor a Job Opportunity Fair to be held at Stanford University on October 6 and 7. President Richard W. Lyman has announced.

The fair, open to all applicants without charge, in Maples Pavilion from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., is designed to bring representatives of business firms, government agencies, educational institutions and hospitals in contact with unemployed and underemployed individuals in the area.

Representatives will be present to interview job-seekers and to provide career counseling.

The fair will give special emphasis to employment opportunities for minorities, women and Vietnam veterans.

Its organizers hope to attract professional school and college graduates, as well as technical and skilled workers.

Information is available to employer participants from Herb Rhodes, Stanford University, (415) 331-2300, ext. 3315, and to jobseekers from Delores Stagg, California State University, San Francisco, (415) 469-1761.

Participating employers of Oakland include Blue Cross, Clorox, Kaiser, Laney College, Montgomery Ward, Saturn Airways, World Airways and the Oakland Army Base.

Those from Berkeley are Aircor Temescal, Canada Dry and the city of Berkeley.

Those from San Francisco include American Information Development, Atlantic Richfield, Bank of America, Bank of California, Bechtel, Dean Witter, Fireman's Fund, Joseph Magnin, Levi Strauss, Macy's, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil, Wells Fargo Bank, Western Electric and the United States Civil Service Commission.

They Tried It Out On The Queen

Dan Rowan and Dick Martin will star in a fast-paced, one-hour presentation modeled after their command performance before the Queen of England, to be broadcast on the NBC Television Network Thursday, September 13.

Titled RCA's Opening Night, starring Rowan and Martin, the special will include guest stars Harry Belafonte, Bob Newhart and Olympic gymnast Cathy Rigby.

"This special will have the feel of the royal command performance," said producer Paul Keyes, who also will serve as head writer. "We are getting the best performers we can get, doing their best things."

"There will be no dialogue, no sketches, no blackouts. The introductions will be short, 15 seconds or less. It will be all performance, emphasizing the career highlights of our guests."
